International Symposium on Gold Geology and Exploration, June 26-30, 1989, Shenyang, China. Organized by The Chinese Society of Metals. China is rich in gold resources and has favourable metallogenetic conditions in this respect. China has been one of the earliest countries in the globe in excavating and utilizing gold for more than 5,000 years. At present, hundreds of gold prospects and deposits have been found and a national 'gold rush' has surged forward in all parts of the country.

The aim of this Symposium is to find the possibility of exploring these resources for mankind and also to promote an interchange of viewpoints concerning both theoretical problems and pragmatic experience of gold geology and exploration. Many world prominent experts are expected to take part in this Symposium for presentations as key note speakers.
