Dear ISA Members and Readers,

It has been the endeavour of the Indian Society of Anaesthesiologists (ISA) over the past seven decades to serve the members of the Society in many respects. It has been a Society of the members, for the members and by the members.

Initial decades were spent in consolidation of the group with strengthening of the academic activities, with numerous local, regional and national conferences being conducted by ISA along with the growth of the official journal of ISA, the Indian Journal of Anaesthesia (IJA).

The IJA has seen tremendous growth in terms of quality and the number of articles submitted and it is now successfully published as a monthly issue. The members have contributed a great deal in this success story along with the Editors and their teams.

Keeping in mind the huge number of submissions to IJA, and the potential for further escalation in future, the ISA decided and approved publication of regional journals in anaesthesia. The Northern Journal of ISA (NJISA) and the Central Journal of ISA (CJISA) were launched in quick succession. Both the journals have been published with quality articles from across India and have gained in popularity within short time.

The credit goes to the Editors In Chief of the journals: Dr. Syed Moied Ahmed has steered the publication of the two issues of the CJISA and the contents have been appreciated widely. The ISA National continues to support the journal and wishes the Editor In Chief and his team success in future publications. It is only a matter of time before the journal becomes indexed with quality agencies recognized by Medical Council of India.

I request the members of ISA, the academicians in the Society and the readers to take advantage of this platform promoted by ISA and be part of the success story.

Long Live ISA!

Dear Dr. Moied,

I am happy to know that you are publishing the 3rd issue of the Central Journal of ISA. Collecting articles and publishing them after peer reviewing must be a gigantic task, especially for a journal like CJISA which is in its budding stage. However, the best part is that you could manage to get the ISSN no. within a record time.

The society is committed to encourage the establishment of these zonal journals and our effort will be get it indexed by some agencies so that the value and the standard of the journal is upgraded.

I wish you all the best for you future endeavour and hope to see the journal reach the zenith

Dear Dr. Moied,

It gives me immense pleasure to write this message for the journal especially at a time when we have very few quality journals. ISA has taken an initiative to foster zonal journals primarily to offload the pressure on the Indian journal of ISA. It becomes more important to maintain the standard of the journal so that these zonal journals can grow to become indexed and maintain pace with the parent journal.

Therefore we are committed to live up to the expectations of the anaesthesiologists of the zone and India at large.

Wish you all the best for the 3rd issue and would see to it that the journal gets indexed at the earliest.

Dear Dr. Moied,

I am happy to know that the Central Journal of ISA is publishing the 3rd issue. It is a good initiative that the office bearers of ISA have taken to launch the zonal journals. This will definitely encourage the young budding anaesthesiologists to publish their research articles at frequent interval of time. It will also offload the pressure on the Indian Journal Of Anaesthesia.

However, we should not forget to maintain the standard of the journal and get it indexed. Getting it indexed should be the priority. It will automatically attract good quality research articles and thereby maintain the standard of the journal.

As a Chairman of Indian Resuscitation Journal (IRC) I would take this opportunity to inform that the IRC has come a long way within three years of its inception but has miles to cover. In this journey the zonal journals will definitely play a big role. I would request the editorial board of Central Journal of ISA to encourage research articles on cardiopulmonary resuscitation and get it published. This will enable us to generate our own data.

I wish you and your team all the best in this endeavour.

Dr. SSC Chakr Rao

Chairman

Indian Resuscitation Council (IRC)

Past President ISA National

Dear ISAians.....!!!

It gives me immense pleasure to congratulate the Editorial board members of Central Journal of ISA (CJISA) for the launch of their latest issue. I am really overwhelmed by the quality of the research that is being published and hope that the CJISA will further boost the research in the field of anaesthesiology among the young brains of Central Zone of ISA. I would also like to take this opportunity to applaud the Editorial Board once again who has worked hard for getting the ISSN No. of the journal. I hope and will strive that journal is indexed in the MCI recognised Indexing agencies as soon as possible.... Best of Luck.
